Happy Tuesday, Lorena

Hope all is well with you? Sorry to miss the Pop-Up seminar today, my leg went rouge today.

I may have mentioned the Palos Verdes Art Center is interested in a Pop-Up in vacant or used store front spaces in downtown San Pedro?

When you have a chance, could we schedule some time with Gail to discuss further?

Thanks and see ya soon,

Linda Grimes,

Hi Linda - I'd like to re-energize the conversation about a storefront gallery/studio space. Can you give me contact information again?

Also - We are exhibiting a Pacific Northwest artist this fall who would be interested in collaborating on a mural with Mike and Crew. I'm setting the groundwork now, and as soon as I have more specifics I'll include you in the discussion.

Best,

Gail

Happy Thursday Gail –

Hope all is well with you?

Met with the PBID yesterday and we are planning to attend a Po-Up workshop in mid-August.

It will give me a chance to talk with one of the property owners in town about a PVAC Pop-Up.

Have you thought about a Pop-Up sculpture garden?

The same property owner owns the vacant lot next to the Warner Grand Theatre.

I've been rather enamored of the parking lot at 4th and Cherry in Long Beach. They repurposed an Edsel as benches.

Also stopped in to see Mike – we were talking about some live painting opportunities during the Saturday ArtWalks.

Asked him to look at the fence next to Sirens and give me an idea of what the paint and materials might cost.

The PBID is asking the property owner for permission to use the fence and is open to the idea of funding Mike's crew.

ONWARD!
